Higo-Hosokawa Garden

1-1 Mejiriodai, Bunkyo-ku ☏03-3941-2010 🌟

At the final years of the Edo period, this place has been used as a suburban residence of Hosokawa Etchu, the feudal lord of Higo Kumamoto 540,000 koku. Taking advantage of the height difference of the natural plateau, the circuit style garden around the pond have sloping forests and narrow streams with spring water so that you can see the varied landscape. In autumn the Japanese maple like "Yamamomi" turns red as if covering the pond, and the landscape reflects like a mirror on the surface of the water, from the end of November you can also see the snow hanging pine. Also, the building "Shonbukaku" which maintains the facade of the Taisho period, can be used as a meeting room, being able to choose between western style rooms and Japanese style rooms. You can see the garden from the tea room "Tsukubai-Camellia" or the circuit-style observation floor "Sazanka" on the second floor.

Hama-rikyu Gardens

1-1 Hama-rikyu Teien, Chuo-ku 03-3541-0200

Special Place of Scenic Beauty and Special Historic Site "Former Hama-rikyu Teien Gardens"

This is the family garden of Tokugawa Shogun which functioned as an outer fort for Edo castle that retains a tidal pond of seawater drawn from the bay called Shinonome-ko and 2 duck hunting grounds. In 1695, the fourth shogun Iemitsu’s younger brother Matsumura Tsunashige reclamed land from the sea and built his detached residence called Koto Hama-yashiki on hawking sites of the shogun’s family. With Tsunashige’s son Tsunayosai (later lord) became the sixth shogun, then the mansion became the property of the shogun’s family. The name was then changed to Hama palace. After the Meiji Restoration, the garden became a Detached Palace of the Imperial Family, changing its name to Hama-rikyu. The Imperial Family donated the garden to the City of Tokyo in November 1945, and after restoration work, it opened to public in April, 1948 as Hama-rikyu Gardens. Later, the garden designated as a Special Place of Scenic Beauty and Special Historic Site of the country.

Kyu-Shiba-rikyu Gardens

1-4-1 Kaigan, Minato-ku 03-3434-4029

Place of Scenic Beauty "Garden of Former Shiba-rikyu"

Kyu-Shiba-rikyu is regarded by many as being one of the most beautiful gardens in Tokyo, and it’s one of only two surviving Eda era feudal lord’s gardens along with Koishikawa Korakuen Gardens. It is a typical Japanese garden with a pond surrounded by a path, featuring superb ground and stone work. Kyu-Shiba-rikyu is filled with man-made hills which give excellent views of the environment, the highest hill Oyasuma however provides a full, panoramic view. The garden was bestowed to the Tokyo City in 1924 in commemoration of the wedding of Emperor Showa in January of the following year, 1924. After restoration and upgrading work, it was opened to the public as “Kyu-Shiba-rikyu Onshi Gardens”.

Kolshikawa Korakuen Gardens

1-6-6 Koraku, Bunkyo-ku 〒03-3811-3015

Special Historic Site and Special Place of Scenic Beauty “Kolshikawa Korakuen Gardens”

Construction of the garden was started by the feudal lord Tokugawa Yorifusa back in 1629, and completed in the hands of his son, the second domain lord, Tokugawa Mitsukuni with the help of a Cornucian scholar from China. This shows Chinese influence can be seen throughout the garden, and it gives Kolshikawa its own unique ambience. Typical sights in China were reflected as seen by Engetsu-kyo and Sekko-in-kyou-ji. Also, Korakuen is a garden of many hills and levels with winding paths that lead to extraordinary views. The garden is centered on a large pond, but has many stone pathways which lead off to groves, fields or scenic spots which visitors can enjoy in almost perfect calm.

Kyu-Iwasaki-tei Gardens

1-3-45 Ikenohata, Taito-ku 〒03-3823-8340

Important Cultural Property “The former Residence of the Iwasaki Family”

Kyu-Iwasaki-tei Gardens was built in 1896 as the main residence of Iwasaki Hisaya, the 3rd president of Mitsubishi and the eldest son of Iwasaki Yataro, the founder of the group. In these days, as many as 20 buildings were arranged in the site. But, at present, it has been reduced to 1/3 of its original size with only 3 buildings, the western-style style, billboard room and Japanese residence hall. The western-style residence and billboard room were designed by Josiah Conder who also designed Kyu-Fukuraku Gardens. On the other hand, the Japanese building, connected to the western-style building, is reported that its construction was done by Okawa Kiyuro who had engaged in building of many residences for magnates of political and business circles as the master carpenter.

Rikugien Gardens

6-16-3 Hon-komagome, Bunkyo-ku 〒03-3941-2222

Special Place of Scenic Beauty “Rikugien Gardens”

Rikugien is a kyaku-style (circuit style) daimyo garden with manmade hills and a pond that reflect tastes and flavor of the world of Waka poetry. This garden was constructed in 1702 by the lord of Kawai domain, Yanaejiwa Yoshiyasu, who was deeply trusted by the 5th shogun, Tokugawa Tsunayoshi. This is a typical and representative daimyo garden of Edo period, and it became the second residence of the founder of Mitsubishi, Iwaoi Yasato in the Meiji era. Later, it was donated by the Iwaoi family to the City of Tokyo in 1938. This delicate and genial garden provides viewing pleasure of changing sights streaming along the pond.

Mukojima-Hyakkaen Gardens

3-18-3 Higashi-Mukojima, Sumida-ku 〒03-3811-8705

Place of Scenic Beauty and historical sites “Mukojima-Hyakkaen Gardens”

During the eras of Bunke and Bunsei (1804 - 1830) when cultural life flourished among common town people in Edo (present Tokyo), a wealthy antique dealer named Sahara Kikuo took an initiative to open a flower garden for viewing pleasure of flower-bearing vegetation in particular, assisted by his friends with literary and artistic tastes and talents. One theory has it that the name “Hyakkaen” was derived from the meaning “Garden where a hundred of flowers bloom four seasons of the year.” At the inception of the garden, it was mostly 360 plum trees, but to follow, well known plants quoted in Chinese and Japanese classics like Shiyo (the China’s oldest collection of peonies) and Monkey-flower (the existing oldest collection of Waka poems in Japan) were collected until the garden provided flowers throughout the seasons. This is the only surviving flower garden of the Edo period to date.

Kiyosumi Gardens
3-39 Kiyosumi, Koto-ku ☎ 03-3641-5892

Place of Scenic Beauty designated by the Tokyo Metropolitan Government "Kiyosumi Gardens"

According to an estimate, this place is regarded as the former site of a mansion of the legendary wealthy merchant,-kindokuruya bunzeemon-in Edo-period. During 1716 and 1735, it became the secondary residence of the domain lord of Seki-yado in Shinmousa-no-kuni (largely present Chita Prefecture), Kuze Yamatokanoki. In 1878, Mitsubishi founder Iwaski Yataro bought the dilapidated residence, and he planned a garden that would be a site for his employee's recreation and to invite dignitaries. While it was opened as "Fukagawa Shinkobuen" in 1880, the garden construction went on until it was completed as the most representative "kaiyu-style (circuit style) garden" in Meiji-period, that include a large pond drawing water from Sumida river and manmade hills in particular valuable stones collected from all over the country. The garden suffered extensive damage during the Great Kanto earthquake and Second World War, but still remains one of the finest examples of a Meiji era strolling garden.

Tonogayato Gardens
2-16 Minamicho, Kokubunji-shi ☎ 042-324-7991

Place of Scenic Beauty "Tonogayato Garden: Zuigen Villa"

This modern villa garden was built taking advantage of the terrace cliff on the southern edge of the Musashino plateau. An open space with a bright lawn at the top of the cliff contrasts sharply with the forested pond and bamboo woods at the bottom. The gardens were constructed from 1913 to 1915, as a villa for Egozuka Seizo who would become vice president of the South Manchuria Railway Company. Then, in 1929, Iwassaki Hisayuki, president of Mitsubishi Goshi Kaisya purchased this villa from the Eguzuka family. All of the neighborhood protest movement to protect this garden against the development plan of the surrounding areas in the 1960s, this work was purchased by the Tokyo Metropolitan Government in 1974, and after upscaling and preparing works, it was opened as a Places of Scenic Beauty of the country as Tonogayato Gardens.

Shinjuku-Gyoen

Nationally designated important cultural property “The Old Imperial Western-style Rest House”

In the Edo period (Tensho 18), Naito of Shinshu Takato domain built a residence in the land that was given by leyasu Tokugawa. In 1872 (Meiji 5), to promote modern agriculture in Japan, the government established Naito Shinjuku Experimental Station. Then it became a Shinjuku Gyoen Botanical Garden under the jurisdiction of the Imperial Household Agency. In 1906 (Meiji 39), it became the first Imperial Garden of Japan.

After the war, it was opened to the public as “National Garden” with 58.3 hectares and a circumference of 3.5 km, where we can enjoy various seasonal landscapes, including a variety of gardens like Formal Garden, Landscape Garden, and Japanese Traditional Garden, as well as spring cherry blossoms and autumn leaves.

Remains of the Shoin Garden from the Early Showa period

Yamamoto-tei
7-19-32 Shibamata, Katsushika-ku ☏03-3657-8577

Katsushika ward registered Tangible cultural property “Yamamoto-tei Garden”. Tokyo Metropolitan Government-Selected Historic Place “Katsushika-tei Yamamoto-tei”

Yamamoto-tei with a breadth of 270 square meters, is a typical Shoin garden that features a path around a pond and drops a waterfall from the lush shrubbery and artificial hill. The garden preserves the style of the beginning of the Showa period, which is an extraordinary case these days. The waterfall has been placed in the farthest place inside the pond, giving the pond an impression of being larger and producing a sympathetic resonance. Also, as a technique to show the surface of the pond wider, caves have been placed on all sides.

Admission
